My dear Mrs Chapman

Ellen Garrison, the bearer of this, is a colored girl from our town who is going to Boston to obtain employment. She is a very intelligent girl for one of her advantages, having been deprived of the privilege of frequently in our Common Schools for Separately of learning. She has met with us in our little Society and feels desirous to know something about the Meetings of your Society in Boston, which she thinks of attending, if possible. She has written a letter for the post Office at her place, which shows some talent. I told her that you would be happy, I knew, to give her any requisite information and trust I would write to you by her.

Yours truly

Wm. W. Brooks
